The web portal on Development Policy of all German Federal States

The website German Federal States in Development Policy presents the respective development policy objectives and activities of the 16 German Federal States.

The portal provides an overview of the multi-faceted commitment and involvement of the German Federal States and their desire to contribute to the formation of public policy. All the Development Policy Resolutions of the Minister-President conferences since 1962 to date as well as the 16 presentations of development-related activities of the German Federal States are unlisted here. The website is editorially managed by World University Service (WUS) on behalf of the 16 States.

For over 50 years, the German Federal States have been making an active contribution to development policy. They focus their commitment on maintaining partnerships, providing development support for education and promoting civic engagement. Their core competencies and responsibilities are education, higher education and science, culture, economy, migration, Good Governance and climate change. Great emphasis is put on cooperation in the educational field, a core responsibility of the Federal States.

More information on the focus areas of the German Federal States in development policy can be found under: <http://www.entwicklungspolitik-deutsche-laender.de/en>
